

(e) During the interview, the undersigned explained that the Wells reference does not lock the gaming machine to prevent play of the gaming machine by any player since a player of the Wells machine is not prevented from playing the gaming machine. In Wells, the player plays the gaming machine locally or remotely. Applicant asked Examiner Renwick if other language might clarify this distinction, and the Examiner suggested "the gaming machine no longer operates" to play a game.

(f) The undersigned agreed to submit a supplemental amendment to bring out this distinction.

Respectfully submitted,

Dated: December 10, 2008
